CCS – a growing European imperative

Trude Sundset, CEO, Gassnova
7 November 2019
Gassnova

- State enterprise for CCS
- Advisor to the Norwegian Ministry of Petroleum and Energy
- Leads and coordinates research and development in CLIMIT
- Tests technologies from around the world at TCM
- Tracks and coordinates the full-scale CCS value chain
Climate change divides the Alps down the middle

The independent
8 min read 1 Jan 2018

Greens surge in Swiss elections as voters' climate concerns grow

Climate Change Divides Europe

Europe's East-West divide over climate policy

Climate policy is splitting the EU.

Forbes

Switzerland's Green party saw a surge in support, while the east saw a drop. The federal cabinet might keep the Greens out of his cabinet.

Stephanie Pope

The north will be hit the hardest in Switzerland.

The south will be hit the least in Switzerland.

GASSNOVA

Europe's East-West divide over climate policy

There's growing pressure to save Europe, but not all EU countries are on board.

BY KALINA OROSHCHENKO | 5/8/19 | 10:15 AM CET | 10000
A growing European imperative
The Full-scale CCS project in Norway

ccsnorway.com
Willingness among the Norwegian public to invest in CCS